Foreword

After all, people do not change very much. Knights in heavy armor and ladies in flowing robes and towering head-dresses seem far away from our own experience sometimes, but really they were not so different. Situations have a way of repeating themselves, too—knights passed through years of training as pages and squires and then set forth to seek their fortune in the wide world in somewhat the same manner in which we go through a period of training. It was to these things that we turned our minds in attempting to connect the past with the present in the following pages. We hope that you will feel the magic charm of the days gone by as we felt it.

The Sweet Briar Student Government Association grew out of an earnest desire on the part of the students to assume individual and community responsibility for their own conduct in matters not strictly academic. Dignity and honor pertain to student government, and it is a means whereby the highest ideal of government depends upon the high standard of honor, personal and collective, of the entire student body, and the co-operation of every member, who should feel it her individual responsibility to raise the standard and ennoble the life of the community in which she takes her place.

The Y. W. C. A. at Sweet Briar is an organization formed for the purpose of social service. On the campus it takes charge of classes, chapel, and entertainment for the waitresses, holds chapel every Wednesday evening for the student body, and manages a lending library of modern fiction. Under its auspices excellent speakers are invited to the college, and interesting group discussions follow. At the beginning of the year the Y. W. C. A. welcomes the new girls and helps them to adjust themselves to college life. Its chief interest off the campus is a small church and school for the "half-breeds," known as the Mission, where, following the closing of the school last fall, Sweet Briar students have conducted classes once a week.

The Interclass Council has been organized to take the place of the former Varsity Council. To obtain and retain a certain amount of harmony between Freshmen and other students, to make "hazing" a thing of the past, and to acquaint the Freshmen with the traditions of Sweet Briar, are the purposes, aims and hopes of the Council. It is in its earliest stage of development. But we hope we have begun something worth while in aim and purpose. And may the standards each year be raised by those who come after us, until the Interclass Council be recognized as a very worthy organization.

The International Relations Club of Sweet Briar College was organized in 1921 under the leadership of Dr. McDougall. Since then the club has grown both in scope and influence. The aim of the present organization is to stimulate and encourage the habit of serious and intelligent thought along international lines in the hope that it may become a life habit. The work is, in the main, in the hands of the student members, but the faculty have taken a decided interest in the welfare of the club, realizing the need there is for such an organization. An attempt has been made to keep it serious, nonpartisan, and free from all propaganda. It is under the supervision of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

In pursuing this aim, the club has made trips to places of historical interest, and has tried to make its programs follow lines of more modern interest.

The Biology Club was one of the first departmental organizations of Sweet Briar, having been founded in 1924. Its purpose is to promote interest in the biological science in Sweet Briar. The members are juniors and seniors majoring in biology, and also those who have high scholarship in the department.

At the monthly meetings there are papers presented on topics of scientific interest, and reviews and discussions of articles from scientific journals.

Each year the club sends a representative to one of the research laboratories for the summer session. Bobbie Rich went to Wood's Hole; Kitty Brightbill, to Cold Spring Harbor; and Margaret Hiatt attended the University of Michigan summer station at Douglas Lake. The Biology Club also has given the bird bath in Sweet Briar garden, and some books to the browsing room of the library.

The Classical Club is composed of students of Greek and those students of Latin who have filled the requirement for the degree in that subject. Its purpose is to foster interest in the literature, life and art of the Greeks and Romans. The club, through gifts and purchase, has acquired a small but growing collection of Greek and Roman coins and other classical antiques, which it is presenting to the college. Some of the interesting programs have consisted of a study of these antiques, archaeological subjects, and various phases of classical learning.

The Ensemble

One of the outstanding interests among the students of Sweet Briar is that shown in music, and the Sweet Briar Ensemble is a living expression of that interest. Begun in the fall of 1926, by a small group of enthusiasts, it is today a live and active organization. Once each week its members meet and experience together some of the world's finest music literature. And twice a year they present the fruits of that experience in a concert, which is given not so much as a proof of their achievement but rather as an invitation to the whole college community to share and enjoy with them their musical experience.

Organized early in the college's history from a nucleus of a small group of girls who went through the dormitories singing Christmas carols the night before Christmas vacation, the Glee Club has grown in proportion to the college itself. The carol-singing group has become a club of fifty members whose aim it is to enjoy as well as to perform for the pleasure of the college community some of the best music, and whose policy it is to present achievements in concerts both formal and informal at various times during the college year. Because the Glee Club was formed simply and solely through the love of singing of its originators, the Club has always been especially for those who love to sing and who want to learn to love it. And it still sings Christmas carols!

The Sweet Briar News was organized three years ago and is the newest of the student publications. It aims to furnish the campus with all news of local interest, and also to give the alumnae the news of their own classmates and of their college.

The News this year won fourth place in Class A in the contest conducted by the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association as the only women's college paper to place in this class.

A Board of Control, composed of three faculty advisers, five elected students, and the editor and business manager in ex-officio positions, was organized this year to stand back of the paper's policies, and to assume all responsibility in emergency situations.

And in due course of time the dogwood will appear, and then May Day, and then exams, and, strangely enough, the year is over and a line will form to the right—quietly, please—to get your sprig of boxwood.

FINIS.

Ode to January

*The month before Exams has a peculiar atmosphere—
An effect upon the inmates that is strange but quite sincere.
They begin to feel their ailments, and take notice of their pulse,
And consider their disorders, with astounding results.
There are five who have tricerias, prophasitis lithiasis,
Odonhasis Scleriasis and trypanosomiasis.
Some twenty have endogamy, isonomy strabotomy.
Digamy, nosonomy, laryngotracheotomy.
There's a swell case of cynanthropy, a beauty of neocioscopy,
And several of allotropy, and one of ducteroscopy—
A Freshman has glyptotheca, an athlete has sautonica,
An Eagle has ceustacca which she bandages with arnica.
And everybody's ailing, and we all are simply frantic,
And the way we hope for luck is positively necromantic.
Then we go into the battle for a solid week or more.*

* * * *

And it's over, and we don't care what we made, and we go to Mrs. Will's for supper—and spring has come.

P. S.: This is what happens when a perfectly respectable girl gets hold of a rhyming dictionary. Anyhow, all the words are guaranteed to be in Webster's—and aren't they beauties?

W. B. M.

Snoop

*Augusta Snoop we here behold,
And honest, she's a perfect whoop;
She has a mind—the glasses show it,
The sloping brow denotes the poet,
Her manner aims at eccentricity—
She dearly loves to win publicity.
But more than that she loves to find
Exactly what is "on your mind."
She wants to know just what you know
And what you think of so-and-so.
Be sure and look out for Augusta,
And also look out how you trust her.*

Athalete

*Here we see in all her glory,
One of the genus ath-a-lete—
A dame oft sung in poem and story;
Her life is just one daring feat.
Her tennis—Gad! Her hockey—zounds!
Her track and baseball—ah, adsooks!
She shines in all sport's ups and downs—
She isn't very good in books.
But what are Latin, Math and Ec
Compared to swimming, riding, boating;
Her blazer is without a fleck—
She's B.S.—bachelor of sporting.*

The Briar Patch '30'

Ode

I.

*The Senior Study on any morning;
Sleepy Seniors sit around yawning;
Patsy feebly plays solitaire;
Diddy sticks hairpins in her falling hair,
Someone has to study—wants to turn on a light—
"Cut out that glare"—and avoid a fight.
Everybody griped and nobody awake—
In the Senior Study any morning you take.*

II.

*The Senior Study right after lunch;
Smoke hangs heavy—no wonder—what a bunch!
Keeler, Jones, Nelson, Blake, have a contract game—
Feeling runs high—makes auction seem tame,
Auction keeps up anyhow—four groups or more,
If you can't get a table you play it on the floor.
Huge gang gathers 'til the one o'clock bell—
Afternoon smokers must adjourn to the Dell.*

III.

*The Senior Study at the after supper hour;
Greatest crowd of all assembles now—a
Dozen games of cards claim our devotion,
From "Bridge" via "Hearts" to "Spit in the Ocean."
The Senior Class—the swiftest gang on earth
(Tribute from a Junior for what it may be worth)!
When you want to locate any Senior in school
Try the Senior Study since the new smoking rule.*

New W. and L. Swing

By OUR CARSON CORRESPONDENT

*The Washington and Lee boys fell in line—
They'll see Sweet Briar girls another time!
Orla and Maxwell, Rip and Franke yell—
Martha McBroom and Mildred Larimer as well.
Thanksgiving Day is drawing very nigh—
We think of Lex and wish that we could die,
That final brawl was just
A bit too much,
Life is such—
The woman always pays!*

Executive

*A noble type of executive
Is Arabella Ames;
Her example is indicative
Of a certain class of dames.
She knows the bounds of campus
And every class' right;
She knows just how to damp us
When we're out too late at night.
She goes to every meeting,
Executive or College;
You can see it in her greeting—
The extent of her knowledge.*

May Queen

*Mary is the May Queen type—
The pretty, pretty play queen type.
We know you've heard of her.
She's present at Virginia dances
And she prances and she glances
At the men, the many men
Who've heard and want a word with her.*

Epilogue

*Of rhyming I know nothing,
Of verse forms even less;
Of all my little efforts,
I'm aware I've made a mess.
I'm not like William Wordsworth,
I don't touch the Byronic,*

*My attempts to be satirical
Are not even sardonic.
But take them, oh so kindly,
In reading have a heart,
And pass the errors blindly
From the moment that you start*

The Passing of Rhea's

By A. GRADUATE

In the fall of '29 I returned to Sweet Briar, my Alma Mater—or mammy—if you feel that way about it—surveyed the columns white—spoke to Colonel Beard—was asked to the T House by a senior friend who ordered a delicious meal (!) then found she had no money—(luckily I had plenty)—and generally renewed relations with that place which will always be closest to my heart—closest, that is, after Charlottesville, Lexington and Chapel Hill.

Some time in the afternoon I proposed going to Rhea's. It just naturally came to my lips. I had on campus model shoes and the Road to Rhea's seemed to be their only raison d'être. Imagine my amazement when—(I might call her A—K. B— or N— R— but I won't) said "Oh, no, dear, we'll go dellying." She hadn't even thought to break the news to me—the astounding news of Nov. Well, girls, you can imagine how I felt! Imagine flicking your ashes practically on the front steps of Sweet Briar House. Imagine hearing Miss Dix say—with that kindly smile of hers we all know so well—"When you all have finished smoking, I'll get Annie to throw out the butts!" College life!

Anyhow, I felt the need of Rhea's—my heart ached for a sight of the old loved spot. So out we went. It was like going home. How well I remembered every rock in the road, every turn in the path, especially that nasty rut just beyond Mr. Beard's. At last we reached the gate. There was Chuck's—just as of yore—there was Rhea's and beyond, the store, the barn, the hedges. Involuntarily, I stopped to light up the minute I crossed the line. There were the croquet wickets, rusty and weather-beaten, then further on, the sign of the fir tree. But oh—how desolate! How woe begone! Can that tired man with the bitter smile twisting his haggard countenance be George? Can that woman with the dogged, hurt look in her eye be Esther? Alas, yes. No longer does the Coca-Cola man come by on Tue days, the Justrite and Holsimer Bread truck, on Friday mornings. Never again will the Chesterfield agent harangue a fascinated group on the efficiency of his brand for everything from angina pectoris to fallen arches. Nevertheless, a hollow wind whistles over the desolate scene. No one has come regularly since the day of days except Beth Conover, who says it is a quiet place to sit with George—far from the madding crowd which livens the dell with its gay camaderie.

New Libe

Of course, in any write-up of the year—yeah, that's what we're supposed to be doing—the Library looms large. Unfortunately, the subject has been pretty thoroughly run into the ground by practically any publication around here—newspaper—Brambler—Alumnae News—letters home and so on, ad infinitum. So that there's little left for us to say. But having a column or so to say it in . . . Well, most noticeable: (1) Workmen's quartet singing "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." We don't know which May Queen it was addressed to. (2) Those airy corridors! After a tour early in October we decided that the old library (silent prayer for old library) could easily have gone into the Press room, with space left over to hold the stove at Rhea's. (Incidentally, why didn't we think of combining the two years ago?) (3) Of course the Browsing Room: it ought to have come first but this is chronological order. (4) Study rooms. Honest, they are the homiest places. There's one that's our particular favorite—yeah, the one with the sense of humor and the good disposition. (5) The stacks. We haven't seen them at the point of going to press and are inclined to think they are purely legendary, or maybe it's just that we lack driving power and initiative. (6) Nearness to post office. So much more convenient than wading through the mud, as of yore. (7) All the locked doors. It would take a diagram and blue prints to explain all this but any habiter will understand. At any rate, it lends an air of sport to the place—trying to count the detours necessary to get from side door nearest Carson to back door nearest Tea House. Not that you would ever want to, but try it some time. It's like trying to cross New York, by all accounts. So far, only three people have been reported missing of the brave pioneers who set out. (8) Oh, there are wads more things about the library—it's purely swell. Thanks so much, Mr. Reid.

Ye Briar Patch

The Annual is, of course, run on the most up-to-date lines of modern business efficiency. There is the Advertisement Committee . . . "Yeah, I went to Guggies and it's all fixed up and honestly they've got the cutest new line of evening dresses you've ever seen—long! What I mean, there's one in lipstick red, I think it's called, or maybe it's American Beauty—all those names they use drive me completely bats. But really this one is simply down to the ground—princess lines, you know. Of course it sounds just like all the rest, but there's just something about it. What? Oh, kid, if you've got a test to study for, far be it from me. Jenny says sure, same size ad—she's such a lamb; but, my dear, guess who was in there? That cute W. and L. guy that's been rushing Sally—with some Macon dame too! Can you imagine! Wouldn't she just die! Oh, all right—Compliments A Friend, 1-8 page; Craighill, 1-2 page; First National Bank, 1-2 page; and there's the most angel teller or cashier or cashier or something in there—looks like Bill exactly, only taller—huh? Oh all right"

There is the Write-up Committee . . . "Come on now, gals, we've been gossiping for ages. Every time we get together it develops into a hull session. Let's do nubs and start with Mabel. My gosh! Do you think she's cute? Well, in the first place, she's dumb as the deuce, and in the second place she'll never learn to fix her hair right, and conceited—gad! I admit she's right cute looking, but I get so sick of hearing Carolina, Carolina, CAROLINA! Honestly, if she just knew what Virginia boys think of her, she'd shut up. To say anything of the Sigma Nu's at Chapel Hill! Yeah, Buck told me—she's the joke of the place. . . . Oh, she's easy to write up: "fraternity pins." . . . Well, I know we've used it about thirty times, but it does fit and maybe she'd get wise. How about "football games"—according to her, she hasn't missed one since the World War Oh, well"

There is the Committee to answer complaints . . . "Oh, hey, Dot—huh? . . . Oh, your picture? Gee, kid, that's tough. I take a rotten one myself, so I ought to know. Yeah, really . . . aw, say! . . . Yeah, Jack keeps asking for one, but I simply refuse to have my beauty struck. They're always so awful . . . well, I swear I wish there was something I could do about it . . . Hi, say . . . what . . . Oh, your picture? Gee, don't you like it? I think it's precious, honestly I do . . . 'cause those caps and gowns are so depressing anyhow . . . yeah, I know, it doesn't do you justice, but still it's cute enough. Gosh, when I have my mug taken I always hope it won't pan out . . . honestly—huh? . . . And so on—quite the most up-to-date business methods—yeah?—oh well!

Yo-Yo

The coming of the Yo-Yo may be considered the last burst of summer after the shades of the prison house closed about us this fall. Why bother to describe it? We all know those two magic discs, the intricacies of keeping our string free of knots, the rivalry in colors, the heated arguments at Rhea's on the proper flick of the wrist for the back-hand swing. We have all struggled to achieve the "barrel roll," the "trolley car," the "W. and L." swing and that diabolical, nameless toss in the air which has been responsible for so many cracked skulls and black eyes. Who started the Yo-Yo here? Some say Liz Stevenson found it nice for horseback riding and brought a round dozen back. Some say E. Phillips became adept with the Yo-Yo in the streets of Memphis—and was finally able to send it from the front porch down the corner to the drug store with an order attached for a Coca Cola and a pack of gum. There are many claims, and the matter is still open to dispute.

The Yo-Yo's fall from notoriety was as sudden as its rise (no pun). One day there were Yo-Yo contests, Yo-Yo clubs, friendships and enmities formed about the Yo-Yo. The very faculty were taking it up. Songs were written on it. The next day we were sending them home to our little sisters. A few jokes on the subject lingered, but were considered gauche in the extreme. The Yo-Yo was no more.

The Sweet Briar Alumnae Association is organized for the purpose of keeping alive among the graduates and former students of Sweet Briar a feeling that they still have a part in the development and life of their college. An executive secretary, who resides at the college, keeps in touch with all members of the association and informs them of interesting events at school through letters and bulletin. The Alumnae office in the Book Shop building is an attractive center for returning alumnae and prospective members of the association.
